Primary races set after Monday deadline

GOP primary for sheriff now includes 3

BY BOB DEMAREE

The Republic primary for Jefferson County Sheriff has become a three-man race with incumbent Dave Thomas being challenged by former deputy Ben Flint and longtime lawman Mike Sims.

The filing deadline, originally set for noon on Friday, was extended to Monday after a winter storm closed the county courthouse and prevented filing on Thursday and Friday. Sims, a deputy under former sheriffs George True and Bill Andrews and current police officer in Kentucky, entered the race Monday to make it a three candiate GOP primary.

In Hanover, there was one new candidate for Hanover Town Council District 1 as Coby Cloud filed for District 1 as a Republican in which Democrat Treva Shelton is the incumbent.

New filings for Hanover Township board include Democrats Melvin R. Adams and Laura F. Chitwood and Republican Greg Sanders. New filings for Saluda Township board are Republicans Nora M. Proffet and Tyler S. Proffet. Also, Edward E. Stigall Jr. filed as a Democrat for Madison Township board.

Republican Jim Baker joined the Republican field for 9th District US Congress, increasing the overall field for that race to nine.

For Republican convention delegates, there was one additional filing — Kevin Kellems — that brought the total to 16 in which nine will be selected. Also, Stigall filed for Democrat convention delegate to bring the total to four of which nine can be selected.

BPWS OK street closings for lineup of festivals

BY BOB DEMAREE

A full schedule of activities was announced for the rest of the year when the Madison Board of Public Works and Safety approved several street closures at its meeting on Monday.

Four of the events are city-sponsored — the Very Merry Christmas Parade, Very Merry Christmas Celebration, Regatta Parade and Halloween Festival — and all were approved for street closures.

The Very Merry Christmas Celebration, held last year around the Broadway Fountain following the Christmas Parade, will be moving to Bicentennial Park.

Madison Mayor Bob Courtney initially questioned moving the celebration away from the Broadway Fountain.

"That was really popular there. There were a lot of people and I think the Farmers Market enjoyed the activity that was going on there at the same time, and it was right there where the parade was. Are you sure you want to do that?" Courtney asked, noting he "was concerned you might not have the same level of participation because everything was right there as everyone came off of Main Street, enjoying the parade, and enjoyed all that was there. It was fantastic."

Hannah Fagen, director of communications for the city, said the event has probably outgrown the fountain park.

"This year we're actually making it a larger event," she said, adding that in talking with parents, they prefer Bicentennial Park because "it's much easier to keep their children in a safe area and not have to worry about them darting into the street. With us making it larger, we want to get it into Bicentennial Park for the safety of the kids."

Courtney expressed praise for last year's event, and agreed with the reasons for the move. "It sounds like you've given it a lot of thought in regards to what the venue should be, and really trying to accommodate an event bigger and merrier Very Merry Christmas."

Both the Very Merry Christmas Parade and the Very Merry Christmas Celebration will be held on Saturday, Dec. 3. Meanwhile, the Halloween Celebration will be Saturday, Oct. 29 and the Madison Regatta parade will be Friday, July 1, moving to 6 p.m. this year after beginning at 7 p.m. last year.

Street closures were also approved for the Madison Chautauqua Festival of Art for the same streets as last year including Vaughn Drive between Mill and Jefferson streets, along with Vine and Elm streets south of Main Street, Broadway Street south of Second Street, and Poplar, West and Central streets south of First Street, along with parts of First Street in that area. "Last year worked, so let's do it again," said Kara Hinze, Chautauqua event coordinator. "Last year was fantastic. Artists recorded record-breaking sales."

Street closures were also approved for Walk for Life on Saturday, May 7 and the Molly Dattilo 5K Run/Walk on Saturday,

May 14, with both events requiring closure of Vaughn Drive and adjacent streets. There was concern expressed that any lines or markings needed for the race not be permanent. Organizer Paul Kelly assured they use a type of chalk that washes off. Noah Brown of Life Choices Clinic said last year's Walk for Life had 300 walkers and raised $30,000 for the organization.

Bobby Little and Ken Washer, of River Rat Rodz, received approval for a street closure of Vaughn Drive and portions of nearby streets for the Riverfront Run Car Show, which Little said will be the 10th anniversary. Even though the weather wasn't the best for last year's event, Little said 416 cars were entered and he's "hoping for 500 at some point in time."

Jerry Wade, owner of the Mad Paddle Brewery, 301 West Street, requested and received a closing of parking spaces directly in front of his business for various food truck vendors on 12 dates his year with the possibly of requesting more dates. In the past he has reserved spaces with traffic cones but neighbors have complained it's not legal.

"We're trying to figure out a way to work out food trucks. Our ordinances are not really conducive to the modern environment we're in with the relevancy of food trucks."

— Bob Courtney
Madison mayor

Courtney said reserved closings is not the long-term solution and he will be working with City Council to come up with a procedure to better deal with that. "We're trying to figure out a way to work out food trucks," he said. "Our ordinances are not really conducive to the modern environment we're in with the relevancy of food trucks."

In other business, the board:

- Heard that an agreement had been negotiated and finalized with Intact/Chubb, the city's 2022 carrier for property and liability insurance amounting to a $35,000 savings from the original $414,376 premium that had been quoted.
- Approved an additional services agreement of up to $6,000 with CWC Latitudes of Seymour for work on removal of the pool lining that was not in the original contract.

"We're really expecting there's going to be a net change order to the positive where the total price of the contract with Poole Group will go down," Courtney said. "They've already found innovative ways to save money on the contract and thus far it looks like we are on schedule" with target date for completion being May 22, just a week before the pool would open for the summer during Memorial Day weekend.

- Courtney updated about a property at 1202 Wells Drive that was destroyed in a fire in December of 2020. The structure has been demolished but there remains a significant amount of cleanup that has not been done, and he said city will be hiring a contractor to do the cleanup. "Hopefully that will be arranged this week, and residence in that neighborhood will see a difference in that property," he said. "We're happy the owner voluntary demolished the structure, but now we need to proceed with cleanup."
- Approved a PACE midpoint award of $3,750 to Howard and Lisa Cutshall for work at 907 and 909 West Second St. Also, final awards were granted to Sharon Daghir at 215 East Fourth St. for $1,987, Mike Prickett at 927 West First St. for $7,500, Marcia Christine Prime at 112 East Third St. for $3,251.72, and Michael Roark at 1035 West Main St. for $12,500.
- Approved a contracts with BYB Events Services for the Halloween Festival ($7,550) and the Very Merry Christmas Celebration ($10,800), along with Honey Hill Farm ($1,149.60). The city will seek sponsorship dollars from the community to pay those contracts.

Social media is forever

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I have experience as a financial coach, and some of the people I help are researching college scholarship opportunities for their children who are in middle school and high school. Many colleges and universities take a hard look at the social media history of prospective applicants, especially those who are applying for scholarships.

The colleges look at grades, accomplishments, volunteer work, awards, honors and social media to determine the character of the applicant. If this teen is planning to go to college, the parents do need to monitor the teen's interactions and help the teen understand the ramifications of careless and reckless posts.

It would be heartbreaking to do the right things to qualify for college and then fall short because of old and forgotten social media posts. Anything we post is out there forever somewhere. — Just Another Point of View

Dear Another Point of View: Thank you for your insight. You bring up a very important point for kids — and parents — to know. This is a new challenge that this generation is facing, and it is important to teach children about the consequences of their words and actions, especially on social media, for all the world to see and remember.

Dear Annie: My wife and I are, year by year, going through renovations in many parts of our house. I am more than capable of doing most of the work. However, we hire someone for anything that requires inspections or jobs that take a long time.

My older cousin is very close to a gentleman I'll call "Dan," who is a very skilled jack-of-all-trades and has done some excellent work for my cousin and my mother. The problem is, Dan is a total creep around my wife (and most younger women). I'd like to think I'm overreacting, but his weird behavior is a running joke whenever his name is mentioned.

Dan makes horribly sexualized comments to my wife, and he once ended up on the ground outside a bar when he walked by and slapped her on the rear. My wife thinks we should hire him to complete some work, thinking that Dan will give a discount because of his infatuation with her. I do not want this creep anywhere near her or knowing where we live. My wife thinks I'm overreacting. Am I blowing this out of proportion? — Confused in Pennsylvania

Dear Confused: I'm not really sure why you say you are confused. Your wife is the one who is confused by allowing this creep to come into your house. No amount of money saved is worth being sexually harassed on a daily basis. You are right, and you should try to find a more professional and less creepy jack-of-all-trades.

Sons found their own path to success

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: For background, I played and lettered in a variety of sports during school and continued to play on adult soccer teams and flag football as an adult. My wife was also very athletic, and we fully expected our sons to follow in our footsteps. I do want to qualify that I did well in school academically, obtaining both a bachelor's degree and master's degree in STEM majors (science, technology, engineering and math). Later, I earned an MBA at night school. However, I identified as an athlete, and excelling in a variety of sports was how I felt my worth was defined.

I was only able to get my sons interested in sports because I agreed to coach their recreational soccer teams. At best, both were mediocre players, which to me was very embarrassing, and I did feel some level of resentment toward my sons for not trying to be better athletes and "living up to my expectations" for them. When both my sons entered high school, they chose to join the marching band and stopped playing any sports. Both excelled in their studies and were easily accepted by top-level colleges. My oldest son won an academic scholarship, and my youngest son attended a military college where his schooling was largely paid for. Both majored in STEM degrees.

Fast-forward several years. My oldest son is now a software engineer with one of the leading cloud computing companies and, at 6-foot-1-inch and 230 pounds, is a powerlifter who can easily bench press 400 pounds and squat with over 600 pounds. These are feats of strength that I never even dreamed of accomplishing. My youngest son, at 6 feet tall and 180 pounds, is now a pilot in the U.S. Air Force and easily scores 99 on the Air Force's physical training test. Again, accomplishments I never dreamed of.

I have grown from being a disappointed and resentful dad to being a very proud father of two excellent young men. I now see that letting your children find their own path and encouraging them to develop their own interests will lead to some very pleasant surprises as I have watched them grow up into young men. — Proud Pop

Dear Proud Pop: Thank you for your insightful letter. Your honest look at your mistakes and how your children ended up becoming men you are so proud of is refreshing and inspiring. I'm reminded of the fable of the tortoise and the hare. The hare seemed like he was fast enough to always win the game of life, but it was the slow and steady approach that prevailed. Each of us is born with unique talents and abilities, and if we are allowed to pursue them, good things will follow.

Batesville takes control early, rolls over Madison

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Madison's Henry Grote scored off the opening tip to give the Cubs a lead less than four seconds into Saturday's boys basketball matchup with Batesville. As it turned out, that was the highlight of the day for Madison.

Batesville answered Madison's opening bucket by scoring 13 of the next 15 points as the Bulldogs rolled to a 67-39 win at Salm Gym.

Little went right for the Cubs in the game. While Madison shot a modest 32% (15-for-47) for the game, it missed 13 of 16 3-pointers attempted. The Cubs also turned the ball over 18 times, leading to 24 Batesville points.

While it was an ugly game in all phases, Madison coach Adam Stotts was ready to move on and to look at the next game.

"I feel like this game is always a trap game for us. It's only noon or 1:30 and it's usually not too packed in here and I just think we're not mentally tough enough yet to be where we need to be," Stotts said. "I thought the first quarter wasn't terrible. We weren't hitting shots and we still were only down six but then we kind of just completely imploded in the second. But credit to our young guys for coming in and fighting the whole game for us. I think they worked their butt off so there's some bright spots in there for me but overall it was disappointing."

Madison (5-10) got a layup from freshman Quincy Reynolds and 3-pointer from Grote and trailed only 13-7 after the first, but the wheels came off in the second. By the time the dust had settled and each team headed to the locker room, Batesville was ahead 32-11 on the strength of a 19-4 second quarter.

Madison's deficit reached 26 (45-19) midway through the third before the Cubs began chipping away. Madison got the lead down to 19 (52-33) by the end of the period and to 17 early in the fourth before Batesville re-established control and ripped off a 11-0 run to push the margin to 30 late in the contest.

Batesville (7-10) shot 51% (24-for-49) for the game, but was especially effective from long range, going 7-of-18. The Bulldogs also were 10-of-18 from the free-throw line.

Senior Jackson Falconberry, who was held scoreless in the first half after falling into foul trouble, finished with 15 points to lead Madison while Grote had a near double-double of 14 points and nine rebounds. But no other Cub scored more than four.

Cody Mohr had 15 points,

Madison's Cadence Traylor (10) steals the ball from Silver Creek's Kynidi Mason Striverson during the sectional semifinals Saturday at North Harrison.

Madison battles No. 4 Silver Creek to the wire before falling 52-48

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

RAMSEY — Madison played like a team with nothing to lose, battling fourth-ranked Silver Creek to the final horn before falling 52-48 in the semifinals of Class 3A Sectional 30 at North Harrison on Saturday.

A month after losing to the Dragons by 33 points, Madison played arguably its best game of the season. Despite trailing by 12 early in the fourth quarter, the Cubs battled all the way back to within one and had the winning 3-pointer glance off the rim with five seconds to play.

Silver Creek escaped with the victory but there was nobody on Madison's side of the bench upset about the way the game turned out.

"They did absolutely everything we asked. They bought into to the game plan and they executed it," said Madison coach Sonja Bowyer, holding back tears. "I don't think there were a lot of believers in the gym but I think we made believers out of them tonight. I knew we would take them to the wire. I knew it because nobody knows how dedicated these girls are except for the people that see them every single day. I knew it was going to be a close one because I knew that they believed and I knew that we believed."

Madison showed that belief from the opening tip. The Cubs' intense half-court defense allowed Madison to score the first seven points of the game and still hold a 17-12 lead after the first quarter.

Silver Creek, the defending state champions, recovered with an 11-0 run to open the second and never trailed again, but the Dragons could never get any breathing room, leading just 26-24 at halftime and 40-33 after three quarters.

Silver Creek appeared to get the space it needed when all-state guard Kynidi Mason Striverson, who was held to just three points in the first half, broke loose for a basket and a 3-pointer to stake the Dragons to a 45-33 lead with 6:10 left in the game.

But Silver Creek proved to be its own worst enemy and Madison was there to take advantage. Rather than working the clock for better shots, the Dragons spent much of the rest of the game either firing up 3-pointers or fouling the Cubs. The latter proved especially advantageous to Madison's chances of making a comeback.

David Campbell

Madison head coach Sonja Bowyer (left), assistant coach Adam Dennis (middle) and senior Taylor Lynch (34) watch a free throw late in the Cubs' sectional loss to Silver Creek on Saturday at North Harrison.

Casey Dyer began the rally with a hard basket in the lane and Cadence Traylor and Cameran Cahall each followed by hitting two free throws to quickly close the gap to 45-39 with 4:12 to go.

Silver Creek's Lacey Tingle interrupted the run with a basket, but Madison answered with buckets from Mary Johnson and two by Taylor Lynch. A Lynch steal led to free throws and moments later, Cahall was fouled on a rebound and calmly hit both shots to cut the Dragon lead to 49-48 with 32.9 seconds to go.

Striverson hit a free throw on the other end to push the lead back to two and with 15 seconds to go, Bowyer called a timeout to set up a final play.

Madison tried to work the ball inside, but pushes by Cahall and Lynch were stymied. The Cubs finally found Traylor on the wing and the junior fired up a 3-pointer that look good, but glanced off the rim. Silver Creek won the battle for the rebound and Emme Rooney hit two free throws with 2.2 seconds to go to clinch the win.

Despite the loss, the Cubs left the floor with their heads high and their coach said that they had no reason to be upset.

"They don't care how short they are, or who they're playing against, they're going to go out there and give it their all," Bowyer said. "I have to give a shout out to my seniors because they have led this team with poise and determination this year and I couldn't have done it without them or my coaching staff. I couldn't ask for better people behind me on the bench and around the school."

Traylor scored 14 points to lead Madison while Dyer finished with 11. Cahall had seven points and Lynch ended her final high school game with seven points and the school record for career assists with 323.

Lynch, Mary Johnson and Patty Johnson are Madison's lone seniors and Bowyer will be especially sad to see them go.

"This was my first crew to go through for four years. So I started with them as freshmen and there's been some surprises," Bowyer said. " Mary and Patty have grown so much since their freshmen year and that just makes me so incredibly proud that they stuck with it and never gave up. Taylor is a leader on and off the floor. She's going to the Coast Guard and that tells you something. I cannot think of a better kid than those three."

Madison ends the season with a 12-9 record. Silver Creek (21-2) will face Corydon Central (21-2) in the sectional finals tonight.

2A GIRLS BASKETBALL SECTIONAL

Switzerland starts quickly in 49-27 win over Southwestern

BY LAUREN HANEY

Switzerland County started the game with six straight points and never trailed, defeating Southwestern 49-27 in the semifinals of the Class 2A Girls Basketball Sectional at Southwestern on Saturday night.

The Pacers, who defeated Southwestern 67-32 last month, never gave the Rebels a chance to breath. Switzerland led 18-7 after the first quarter and 26-12 at halftime and cruised from there.

"Overall I was very pleased with how we started," Switzerland County coach Brooke Todd said. "Everybody has had a few days off so obviously I was a little concerned that our legs wouldn't be under us but we played them a few weeks ago and it was a pretty good game for us. They had a few people back so we hadn't played against all of their starters so obviously coming into the sectional game when another team is playing at home there's going to be some raised levels for them."

After that earlier loss to Switzerland County in January, Southwestern knew it had to improve offensively to advance.

"We wanted to stop the two Duvall girls. That was the game plan. Get back and transition and take care of the basketball and get good shots. For the most part, we got good shots — we just didn't make them," Southwestern coach Brian Crank said. "They made shots when they had to make shots and they had a couple girls hit threes that the first night didn't make threes. We didn't make shots."

Switzerland County's defense, which has held teams to a 36-point average this season, was once again the difference. The Rebels hit just nine shots from the floor in the game while shooting 25% and turned the ball over 24 times. Switzerland County, which shot 45% (19-for-42), had 17 steals, including five each by senior twin sisters Jessie and Maddie Duvall.

Madison Regatta confirms that H1 boats will be back in 2022

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Three classes of hydroplane races, two big-name musical acts and an old festival favorite will highlight this year's Madison Regatta.

Madison Regatta President Greg Thorpe announced on a Facebook post that in addition to the familiar H1 Unlimited Hydroplanes, which have raced in Madison since 1954, the Grand Prix American automative-powered class will be back for a sixth-straight year. Joining the race schedule will be the Pro Lite class, a smaller class of hydroplanes.

Madison, home of the Indiana Governor's Cup, has hosted the APBA Gold Cup two of the last three years but is not expected to host that event this year.

On the festival side, classic rockers 38 Special will highlight the Roostertail Music Festival on Friday night with country star Jo Dee Messina headlining Saturday night.

To open up the festival, the Regatta board has voted to bring back the hot air balloons, which have not been a part of the event since the mid-1990s.

"Thank you to all of the Regatta and Roostertail sponsors that make this event possible," Thorpe said.

The Madison Regatta Festival will kick off on Saturday, June 25, with racing set for Friday, July 1 through Sunday, July 3. The Roostertail Music Festival will be held on Friday, July 1 and Saturday, July 2.

Race-only wristbands or combination wristbands good for both the race and music festival, are now on sale at the Regatta's website, www.madisonregatta.com.

Madison's Shibata top seed in two events after prelims

Both Cubs and Rebels set school records

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Madison freshman Mei Shibata earned the top seed in two events, a total of 15 local swimmers will be competing for sectional championships, and both Madison and Southwestern saw school records fall on a very successful opening day of the IHSAA Girls Swim Sectional at Floyd Central on Saturday.

The preliminary races of the event were postponed from Thursday to Saturday due to weather. Despite the delay, local swimmers still posted some of their best performances of the season.

"We couldn't be happier with the results and they are a testament to the hard work the girls have put in all season," said Madison coach Ashley Schutte, whose squad had 20 personal best times. "They have committed to the process and they are seeing the results. They have had the best time together, bonded as a team, and believe in what they can do together."

"We had to make some adjustments because of the weather, but we are in a good position for Monday's finals," Southwestern coach Jay Crawford said. "Every swimmer got a best time today. The most significant being Amiah Owen's 10-second drop in the 200 IM."

Shibata, who has been beaten only twice this season in individual events, claimed the top seed in both the 200-yard individual medley and the 100 breaststroke. Shibata won the IM in 2:17.13 — a full four seconds ahead of her nearest competitor — and the breast in 1:10.47.

Shibata was also a part of two Madison relays that placed second and will be aiming for sectional crowns, including the 200 medley relay, which broke the school record. Shibata, Avery Johnson, Emily Nay and Reilly Kuppler teamed up to place second in that event in a new record of 1:55.73 and were also second in the 200 freestyle relay in 1:47.37.

Southwestern freshman Raygan Crawford also had a big day, placing second in the 100 butterfly in 1:03.74 — just three tenths off the lead — and breaking her own school record in the 100 backstroke by placing sixth in 1:03.99.

Kuppler, Nay and Johnson also earned berths in the sectional finals with top eight finishes in individual events for Madison. Kuppler was fourth in the 100 freestyle in 57.45 while Nay was eighth in the 50 freestyle in 27.01 and eighth in the 100 butterfly in 1:06.26, and Johnson was eighth in 100 backstroke on 1:06.04. The 400 freestyle relay team of Alyssa Storm, Callie Anderson, Emma Wynn and Trinity Stoner placed seventh in 4:24.04.

Southwestern's Julia Worcester placed fifth in the 100 breaststroke in 1:13.70 to earn a berth in the finals. Both of Southwestern's relay teams also earned spots in the sectional finals with the 400 freestyle team of Worcester, Fabiana Orioli, Amiah Owen and Crawford placing sixth in 4:18.41, and the 200 medley relay team of Crawford, Worcester, Orioli and Audrey Bare coming in sixth in 2:07.50.

Switzerland County's Ava Cole, Carly Bennett, Kaelin Taylor and Alisha Detmer placed eighth in the 400 free relay in 4:29.31 and qualified for the sectional finals.

Swimmers who placed ninth through 16th will compete in the consolation finals with a chance to earn points for their team.

WRESTLING REGIONAL

Madison's Skinner, Willhite, Pacers' Rose qualify for semistate

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Madison's Van Skinner and Emmett Wilhite and Switzerland County's Gabe Rose each punched their tickets to the IHSAA Wrestling Semistate by placing in the top four at the Jeffersonville Regional on Saturday.

Skinner placed third at 195 pounds while Rose was third at 138 pounds. Willhite was fourth at 138 pounds, losing to Rose in the third-place match.

Skinner, ranked in the top 10 in the state, has been wrestling with a torn LCL in his left knee suffered in a match in early January. Skinner (42-3) posted a win by fall in 1:56 over Borden's Brady Weatherford in the opening round to punch his ticket to the semistate before falling to eventual regional champion Evan Clayton of Jeffersonville 6-4 in the semifinals. Skinner regrouped to pin Scottsburg's Bryson Mata in 1:00 in the third-place match.

Rose (35-4) scored a win by fall in 3:19 over Gabe Pugh of Eastern (Pekin) in the opening round at 138 while Willhite (13-4) pinned Silver Creek's Cole Bagshaw in 5:37. Both suffered losses by major decision in the semifinals — Rose 10-1 to Charlestown's Jakob Lewellen and Willhite 11-2 to Columbus East's Reece Fisher — before Rose picked up a 9-0 major decision over Willhite in the third-place match.

Wrestlers needed to win their first match in order to qualify for the semistate and all other local grapplers fell in the opening round.

Madison's Danny Mack (20-12) was pinned in 55 seconds by Crawford County's Donnie Feeler at 106 pounds, Eli Stewart (32-9) suffered a 7-4 loss to Jeffersonville's Dawson Slaughter at 120 pounds, Cameron Wall (16-16) was pinned in 1:55 by Jeffersonville's Nathan Elhusen at 160 pounds. Southwestern's Keegan Gross (33-4) was pinned in 3:01 by Corydon's Zane Schreck at 120 pounds, and Switzerland County's Ethan Jones (20-8) lost 6-1 to Corydon's Jayden Owsley at 126 pounds.

Columbus East won the regional team title, scoring 255.5 points to easily outdistance runner-up Jeffersonville, which had 124.5. Madison finished 11th as a team with 21 points, Switzerland County was 16th with 12 points, and Southwestern tied for 17th with zero points.

The IHSAA Wrestling Semistate will be held at Evansville on Saturday. Wrestling begins at 10 a.m. EST.

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Shawe exploded for 24 points in the second quarter and rolled to a 57-20 win over Foundation Christian Academy (Ky.) in boys basketball as part of the McLean County Tournament in Owensboro, Kentucky, on Saturday.

Shawe led only 13-10 after the first quarter but outscored Foundation 24-5 in the second to take a commanding 37-15 lead at the half. The Hilltoppers then allowed only five points over the final two quarters for the win.

Sophomore Philip Kahn scored 24 of his game-high 28 points in the first half as Shawe was blowing open the game. Wyatt Nichter added 16 points for the Hilltoppers.

Shawe, now 6-7 on the season, travels to Columbus Christian today then hosts Switzerland County for homecoming on Friday.

HANOVER ROUNDUP

Panthers knock off Earlham to maintain control of HCAC

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Hanover shrugged off just its second loss in conference play to defeat Earlham 85-75 in men's basketball Saturday at Collier Arena.

The Panthers, who have a two-game lead in the Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference standings with four games to play, jumped out to a 46-35 lead after the first half and held on for the win.

Matt Munoz scored 33 points on 14-of-20 shooting and pulled down seven rebounds to lead the winning effort for the Panthers. Max Greenamoyer scored 28 points on 8-of-12 shooting from beyond the arc.

Hanover, now 16-3 overall and 12-2 in the HCAC, travels to Franklin on Wednesday and heads to Manchester on Saturday. Wins in both games will allow the Panthers to clinch at least a share of the HCAC regular-season title.

Women roll over Earlham

Hanover jumped out to a quick lead after the first quarter and never looked back to beat Earlham 76-61 in women's basketball Saturday at Collier Arena.

The Panthers were red-hot in the first quarter and led 23-11 after the first 10 minutes. Hanover outscored the Quakers by just three the rest of the way but the damage had been done.

A trio of freshmen led the Panthers in scoring. Taylor Heath had 15 points while Grace Bezold scored 12 and Katherine Benter had 11.

Hanover, now 10-8 overall and 7-6 in the HCAC, currently sits in fourth place in the HCAC standings. The Panthers host Franklin on Wednesday and heads to Manchester on Saturday.

Track competes at DePauw

Hanover's track & field teams competed at the Small School Indoor Invitational at DePauw on Saturday.

Zaleeya Martin, who has been the HCAC athlete of the week the past two weeks, won a pair of events to lead the Panther women. Martin, a senior from Shelbyville, won the 60-meter dash in 7.99 and teamed with Makenzie Carroll, Alexis Gerke and Nina Jazdzewski to win the 800 relay in 1:51.89.

Jazdzewski also won the pole vault at 3.05 meters while Lydia Lupinski won the weight throw at 13.32 meters and Lili Seals tied for first in the high jump at 1.40 meters.

Other top finishes for the Hanover women were: Martin, second, 200 dash, 27.76; Gerke, second, 60 hurdles, 9.99; Brianna Medcalf, Amberleigh Sorensen, Allie Thomas and Hanna Whitney, second, distance medley, 14:41.20; and Jessica Beckman, third, shot put, 11.49m.

Top finishes for the Hanover men were: Jalen Simmons, second, pole vault, 3.80m; Cooper Hanson, Robert Hoegeman, Carson Kitchens and Owen Rogers, second, distance medley, 11:19.26; and Justin Johnson, third, pole vault, 3.80m.

DePauw won the seven-team women's event with 170 points while Rose-Hulman was second with 2-102 and Hanover placed third with 88. Wabash won the eight-team men's event with 128.5 points while Hanover was fifth with 54.

Hanover returns to DePauw on Saturday for the Indoor Invitational.

Taylor, McVay reunited as opposing HCs on Super Bowl stage

BY DENNIS WASZAK JR.
AP PRO FOOTBALL WRITER

Zac Taylor's path to a head coaching gig was cleared the moment he joined Sean McVay's staff with the Los Angeles Rams five years ago.

Well, maybe it wasn't actually until the two sat down together in the team cafeteria.

"I think the joke is if you had a cup of coffee with Sean McVay, then you're going to be a head coach in the NFL," quipped Taylor, in his third season as coach of the Cincinnati Bengals and preparing to face McVay's Rams in the Super Bowl.

"And there's a ton of truth to that," Taylor added. "Because if you spend time around the guy, he gives you a ton of confidence in yourself."

That's the reputation McVay has built in league circles since becoming the youngest head coach in NFL history — at just 30 years old — when he was hired by the Rams in 2017.

McVay has since taken Los Angeles to the Super Bowl twice, and done it with a tenacious work ethic along with an orderly — yet energetic — approach. And he operates with humility and respect, traits that have rubbed off on those who have worked for McVay.

"He's really shown a lot of young guys that you can do it in your own way," Taylor said. "It doesn't have to be the way it's always been done for the last 20 years around the league. There can be a different way of doing things, and so I think that we all saw that from Sean. He was very open about how he did things, why he made certain decisions.

"And so that has allowed myself and a lot of other guys to go off and feel very comfortable leading a team because of the impact he made on all of us."

When the Rams and Bengals square off in Los Angeles' SoFi Stadium on Feb. 13, it will be a showdown between buddies. It will also mark the first time both Super Bowl teams are guided by coaches under 40 — with Taylor 38 and McVay 36.

"I'm glad we're going against each other, but we're going to do everything in our power to try to finish this off," McVay said with a smile. "And I know he feels the same way."

McVay's influence continues to grow around the league as his former assistants get top jobs. There's Taylor in Cincinnati, along with Green Bay's Matt LaFleur, the Rams' offensive coordinator in 2017; and the Chargers' Brandon Staley, who was Los Angeles' defensive coordinator in 2020. Current Rams offensive coordinator Kevin O'Connell also appears to be the front-runner for Minnesota's head coaching job.

Still, McVay refuses to take credit for this new wave of NFL coaches.

"I almost think it's a little ridiculous when you talk about the 'tree' because these guys are co-workers where we positively pour into one another," McVay said. "I just happen to be in the role that I'm in. But whether it's Kevin, Brandon Staley, Zac Taylor, Matt LaFleur, I learned more from them than those guys have from me.

"I think they've been instrumental parts of a lot of the things that have been right."

When McVay was hired by the Rams, he sought coaches who shared his vision and could help him turn around a franchise mostly wallowing in mediocrity for a dozen years.

Taylor, coming off a one-year stint as the University of Cincinnati's offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach, was brought in as an assistant wide receivers coach. Taylor, who also spent four seasons as an assistant with the Dolphins, was promoted to Los Angeles' quarterbacks coach in his second year when the Rams went to the Super Bowl and lost to New England.

"Working for Sean was the best two years of my life," Taylor said. "It was fun. You loved coming into the building."

By then, Taylor had established himself as one of the NFL's top young offensive coaches — and the Bengals tabbed him as their head coach. They were hoping he could orchestrate a similar turnaround in Cincinnati.

It didn't come easy.

Taylor's Bengals went 2-14 in his first season and 4-11-1 last season, with whispers about his suddenly tenuous job security starting to circulate.

Then came a massive turnaround with the Bengals going 10-7 this season before winning playoff games against the Raiders, Titans and Chiefs — the last two on the road — to reach the franchise's first Super Bowl in 33 years.

"It's awesome," McVay said. "Zac's a great coach. I think the resilience, the mental toughness, the things that they've gone through to get to this point is great. I think it's such credit to his leadership.

"I love Zac Taylor. I'm so happy for him. I think that team plays with a swagger and a confidence similar to the way Zac carries himself. He's so steady. He's always so neutral."

McVay acknowledges that last part might be the one major difference between the two coaches.

"He's probably more calm than I am," a smiling McVay said.

Maybe it's all those cups of coffee.

"People joke about that saying, but there's so much truth to that," Taylor said. "But I think for all the right reasons because he does a great job of empowering his staff and telling you the why of everything. And it certainly has impacted me here in Cincinnati."

Washington, Tshiebwe push Kentucky over Alabama 66-55

BY BRETT HUDSON
ASSOCIATED PRESS

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. — TyTy Washington scored 15 points, Oscar Tshiebwe had 15 rebounds and No. 5 Kentucky won its fourth straight with a 66-55 victory over Alabama on Saturday night.

Daimion Collins, Kellan Grady, Keion Brooks Jr. and Tshiebwe all scored 10 points for Kentucky (19-4, 9-2 Southeastern Conference).

"Our guard play was good, but Daimion Collins was the difference maker," Kentucky coach John Calipari said. "I don't know what woke me up in the middle of the night saying, 'Lob, lob, lob,' but I told the guys at shootaround we're going to throw the lob and I'm putting (Collins) in for that reason. He now has forced me to figure out how to play him."

Alabama (14-9, 4-6) shot 28% from the field and 10% from 3-point range, the latter being the worst of in coach Nate Oats' tenure.

Charles Bediako scored 12 points and had eight rebounds to lead Alabama.

The Crimson Tide missed 12 shots in a row in the second half during a stretch where Kentucky pushed its lead from four points to 11. And Alabama's shooting woes were the main difference in the game: The teams were tied in turnovers (15) and Alabama outrebounded Kentucky 47-44.

"It's tough to win games going 3 for 30 from 3," Oats said. "I thought we had some good looks, but what was I thought some of the shots affected our effort on the defensive end as the game wore on."

Frazier, Illinois surge in 2nd half past Indiana

BY MICHAEL MAROT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

BLOOMINGTON — No. 18 Illinois needed someone other than Kofi Cockburn to produce Saturday.

Trent Frazier delivered with a nearly flawless second half.

The senior guard made all three of his shots inside the arc, went 2 of 3 from 3-point range and hit both free throws to finish with 23 points while leading the Fighting Illini to a 74-57 victory at Indiana.

"That's why I came to this school, to play in these types of environments with the emotion and the energy," Frazier said after Illinois produced its largest victory margin in the 50-year history of Indiana's Assembly Hall. "It's always fun to play these types of games, especially a victory."

Frazier also returned this season to win a Big Ten championship and after winning their fourth straight overall — and their second straight on the Hoosiers home court — the Fighting Illini (17-5, 10-2) still have the league lead.

Cockburn played a solid game. He finished with 17 points and eight rebounds, falling two rebounds short of his 41st career double-double to remain one short Skip Thoren's career record which has stood since 1965.

Indiana (16-6, 7-5) was led by Race Thompson with 13 points and six rebounds. Xavier Johnson had 12 points, five rebounds and five assists on a day preseason All-American Trayce Jackson-Davis missed the final 15 1/2 minutes of the first half because of foul trouble.

Frazier and Jacob Grandison finally gave Illinois the upper hand in the last 10 minutes.

Grandison started a decisive 16-3 run with back-to-back 3s, the second giving Illinois a 48-45 lead — its first since less than three minutes into the game. Cockburn and Frazier combined to score the remaining points in the spurt as Frazier capped it with a 3 to put Illinois ahead 58-49 with 7:45 to play.

Ivey, Williams lead Purdue past Michigan

BY MARK AMBROGI
ASSOCIATED PRESS

WEST LAFAYETTE — One thing Trevion Williams and the other Purdue seniors had never done in their careers was beat Michigan.

Williams helped the team accomplish that on Saturday. Jaden Ivey scored 23 points and Williams added 19 to lead No. 4 Purdue to an 82-76 victory over Michigan.

"It means a lot to finally get it done," Williams said of snapping the five-game losing streak to the Wolverines.

Williams gave the Boilermakers a spark off the bench, hitting 7 of 8 shots. He also had eight rebounds and four steals.

"The last couple of games I got off to slow starts and things haven't been going my way," he said. "When that happens I turn to God, I'm a religious person. We all deserve time to ourselves to reflect. As a senior, I was kind of taking things personal. When you feel you can give more to the team and then you're not able to do it because of little things like foul trouble or missing a shot. It was just a reality check for me."

WIN

Jessie Duvall came into the game 16 points shy of reaching the 1,000-point mark and fell a point shy by scoring 15 points to lead all scorers. Maddie Duvall, who was 19 points away from breaking into the school's top 10, had eight points. Both will get a chance at the milestones tonight in the sectional championship game against South Ripley.

"Jessie is only a point away so hopefully we can get that out of the way pretty quickly," said Todd. "(South Ripley has) beaten us and we've beaten them so I feel like it'll be a really good game."

In addition to her points, Maddie Duvall had four assists. Courtney Higgins had eight points and Nora Hankins scored seven.

Ashley Fulton and Riley Scroggins led Southwestern with seven points each, followed by Parker Mefford with six points, Emma Long with five and Syrenia Hardy two. Southwestern ends the season with a 6-19 record but loses only one senior to graduation, Emily Hatton, and returns all five starters.

Switzerland, now 18-6 on the season, will face South Ripley in the sectional final tonight. The last time the two teams met two weeks ago, Ripley rallied from 12 points down in the fourth quarter to stun the Pacers 31-29. Game time will be 7 p.m.

Cavs pull off another stunner, acquire LeVert from Pacers

BY TOM WITHERS
ASSOCIATED PRESS

CLEVELAND — Caris LeVert exited the bus with his Indiana teammates and walked into Rocket Mortgage FieldHouse a visitor.

He can make himself at home.

On Sunday, the Cavaliers went from surprising contenders to serious ones.

Pulling off a major move ahead of this week's NBA trade deadline, Cleveland added another talented player to its young core by agreeing in principle to acquire LeVert, a talented swingman who can score from the Pacers.

"He can help put the ball in the hole," Cavs guard Rajon Rondo said. "He can erupt for 40 or 50 a night."

The Cavs are sending Ricky Rubio and his expiring $17.8 million contract, a lottery protected first-round draft pick in 2022 and two second-round picks to the Pacers for LeVert, a person familiar with the trade told The Associated Press.

Cleveland will also get a second-round pick in 2022, said the person who spoke on condition of anonymity because the teams have not yet participated in the required conference call with the league for approval.

The Cavs, who won just 22 games last season, have moved into playoff position and believe they can win the Eastern Conference title. They've been aggressively shopping for more backcourt help and a wing player after losing guards Collin Sexton and Rubio to season-ending injuries.

LeVert should more than help. The 27-year-old Ohio native averaged 18.7 points and 4.4 assists for the disappointing Pacers, who are 19-35 and already thinking about their future. LeVert scored 42 points Friday night against Chicago.

"He'll become a brother very quickly with those guys," said Pacers forward Justin Holiday, who rode to the arena with LeVert. "A serious competitor who wants to win."

The trade was completed about 90 minutes before the Cavs and Pacers tipped off. Indiana coach Rick Carlisle confirmed the agreement during his pregame news conference, which was slightly delayed so he could tell LeVert he'd been moved.

"Cleveland is in a great position, and adding a guy like Caris LeVert very well could push them to the top," Carlisle said. "Caris has been a tremendous young man to work with here.

"He's a very special person and a very special player. He's a first-class human being and a first-class pro and a tremendous player. I'm going to miss him."

The league's trading deadline is Thursday, and it's not out of the question that the Cavs and Pacers may each maKe another move. In the short-term, the LeVert deal is a potential season-changer for Cleveland.

The Cavs entered Sunday just 1 ½ games behind the Bulls for the top spot in the East. It's been a stunning ascent for a young Cleveland team that wasn't expected to do much this season but has overcome injuries and developed quickly.
